

Rain Science

The lake was a desert, no water in sight,
But then the rain came, it was such a delight!
It filled up the lake, just like magic you see,
And now the fish can swim, just wait and you'll see!

The rain is made of water, it's not just a mist,
It comes from the clouds, when they can't resist.
It's held in the air, by the winds so strong,
And then it falls to the ground, making rivers so long.

Rain helps the plants grow, and fills up the sand,
And flows in the rivers, to make a new land.
It brings water to life, for all animals to drink,
And keeps the earth alive, just like you and me think!

Rain is very important, for our big world you see,
It's a special gift that will always be free.
It makes the earth happy, with its steady flow,
And now the lake is full, don't you know, oh!
